

Heidi is an award-winning photographer whose images have been featured in homes, galleries and private collections. Her photographic vision has brought her many accolades and honors, to include several Best of Shows, People's Choice, Judges' Choice, and numerous First-Place awards.

Her Journey began a few years back when she acquired her first macro lens. While Heidi will photograph almost anything that interests her, her true passions lie with macro and wildlife photography. Doing macro photography opened a new vista for her and the journey continues to this day. It is not uncommon to see Heidi perched over the bloom of a dandelion or inspecting the intricate detail of both spiders and their web, camera in hand, creating an image from something most would not have seen. She ventures into nature, braving brambles and bushes, to capture images of wildlife that tell their own story.

Her vision is unique, taking ordinary things into the camera and making them into something extraordinary. She takes pleasure in creating an image that evokes a 'wow' emotion from the viewer. Her eye captures the detail, her heart drives the passion, and the combination will often forge an unforgettable image. Not only is she a photographer, but also an artist and visual storyteller.

A native Californian, Heidi still calls southern California home. She and her husband share their home with two cats. The cats are often unwilling and uncooperative subjects for her photography, but they are more than willing to be a nuisance at the most inopportune time. She and her husband will often spend their time together shooting or planning their next great adventure. She also spends time photographing for local pet rescue/adoption agencies, volunteering her time and talent to help pets find forever homes.
