

President's Message, by Mary Anne Bloom

Happy New Year! I was glad to see so many of you at the holiday luncheon just a few short weeks ago. What a fitting way to end the year—enjoying good company, good food, and celebrating the year together. I revealed our Volunteer of the Year for 2009 — Lee Korich, who directs both Membership and our fantastic web site! Thank you, Lee, for all you have given to us at COAL. And Lee is one of the many of you who serve on committees, take in, hanging crew, back up gallery hosting, hospitality, and gallery operations team. You all deserve our special thanks.

Our deepest sympathy to Beverly Bosche who recently lost her husband—our good friend and fellow COAL member Art Bosche.

There is no question that times are hard for artists and art purchases. But we have done well for COAL by greatly improved the gallery's appearance, increasing our membership and the art hung in our monthly shows. The quality of our artists and their work dazzles the more than 500 people per month who come to see our work.

As we move forward in the year ahead, I want to encourage you to enter the competition to put a piece of your work on the new COAL bookmark that will be our signature handout. All it takes is a 4x6 photo of your work or a section from a piece of work and $5 per entry for consideration. See the application in this issue of Brushmark and on line. Our membership show is coming up fast, and I hope you are getting your work ready for this juried prize show.

There's lots going on at COAL. I want you to be a part of it!

Spotlight on the Gallery, by Felix Bonomo, Gallery Director

Gallery Visitors, November = over 565 visitors*.

Gallery Sales, November: Drew Duke, Bobbi Hirschhoff, Doreen Long, Dave Ombrello, Virginia Ribbel, Judy Richardson, Robert Williams

* 5 November shifts were unstaffed and the gallery was closed Thanksgiving

I make New Year's Resolutions, or at least set goals for the year ahead. This year I have two lists of resolutions—one for me (“lose ten pounds”, “enter more competitions”...) and one for the Gallery. I am so pleased with the gallery's new look and I want to continue into the new year with renewed energy and purpose to keep it up!

I resolve to ask every morning gallery host to dry mop the floor. I sound like Harriett Housewife, but we paid a handsome price to get the gallery looking this good, and we're all going to maintain it as well.

I resolve to ask every evening gallery host to vacuum the rug. Honestly, it takes five minutes. All the other galleries do it or wish they did. We have a terrific vacuum cleaner in the storage room. It will save our floor.

I resolve to be cheerful when our gallery hosts do not return their parking permits when they are done hosting. But I'm still going to ask you to please return your parking permit when you're done hosting! There are at least four of them missing. I suspect they are in your car.

And finally, most importantly, I resolve to work creatively on getting more of your art on display in our beautiful gallery. I'm starting by holding early take in on the Sunday evening (4-7pm) before regular take in for our artists who work days or who rely on drivers who work days and cannot make our normal take in hours on Monday. I have a few other ideas I'll unveil as the year moves on. Because the point of everything I do as the Gallery Director is to create the environment and infrastructure that makes it possible for you to hang your work, have it seen, and possibly have it purchased.

I wish you all the best with your own resolutions in 2010. Can I have a second cookie now?
